

INDUSTRIAL MARKET OVERVIEW

THOMAS FAWCETT, Associate

The Charleston Industrial market continued to exceed historical norms during the third quarter of 2021. Likely spurred on by prior announcements of sizeable investments in Charleston by Walmart, Mercedes, and Volvo; many national and global investors have started to target Charleston, along with large primary markets, as a place to trade assets and park cash. Market research indicates that nearly $399 million dollars has traded hands in the area over the past year alone. This level of investment is not likely to slow down, as indicated by the continued rise in sale price per square foot, rental rates, and reduction in cap rates by motivated buyers who have recently outpaced Charleston's local investors.
